Let's talk watering...with gallons!

We are always asked how often to water newly installed plants during the critical first year of establishment, but it's how much to give each plant where is the place to start. Some plants will prefer more or less frequent waterings but the total amount given per week needs to be kept in a narrow range to avoid harming the plants. Here are the general watering guidelines to begin with, keep in mind that there are too many factors in play which will require physically checking the moisture depth and moisture state. Ideally you should check the moisture depth 6-8" for shrubs and smaller items and up to a foot deep for trees. Perform this test at least weekly to begin with to determine the drainage and evaporation rate of the soil.

Approximate Starting Watering Volumes (for well drained soil):

Pot Size	Water Volume
#1-2 pots	2-4 gallons per week
#3-5 pots	6-8 gallons per week
#7-9 pots	7-9 gallons per week
#10-15 pots	10 gallons per week
(B&B Trees)	10 gallons per 1" trunk diameter

*Try 50% less for plants which prefer drier soils.

*Subtract rainfall amounts from weekly total.

*Dormant plants should only be fully moistened when installed and then wait until the leaves fully emerge to continue.

We stock automatic water bags which are a simple way to help larger items and trees get the care they need. They are a great tool to use especially during summer when activities and vacations come into play.

Azalea Pro Tips:

Azaleas prefer organic, humus-rich, acidic (4.5-6.0 pH) soil. They don't like soggy soil so any excess moisture must drain well. Planting in full sun is fine as long as it is not a sun-baked, hot and dry location. Nursery grown plants are heavily trimmed to create a uniform and dense plant, if left to grow naturally, they will reveal a more natural appearance. Except for rebloomers, they all bloom on old-wood growth so you will want to schedule all pruning immediately after the flowers pass. Annual applications of an organic plant food will keep plants looking their best and help discourage disease and insect attacks. At the time of planting, you will notice the root system has formed a solid mass, chop the bottom 1-2" off the base of the root-ball with a spade and make several vertical slices into the side every 2-3". When setting in the hole make sure the top of the root system is above grade by about an inch and the soil is sloped upwards to meet the top edge, also create a saucer around the base for the first season to collect and retain the moisture. Check out www.azaleas.org on the web for other info on azaleas!

APPLE (Semi-dwarf)

Most white flowering crabapples (even wild growing ones) will pollinate apple trees or plant 2 or more cultivars of apple which are compatible. Apples take a few years to get established and even disease resistant ones will suffer foliar diseases for the first few years. Fruit should be removed until the tree is established to reduce stress and optimize root and branch development. For highest quality fruit a regular spraying schedule may be required to fight pests and diseases. Always follow label instructions and do not mix multiple liquids without the guidance of an expert. Plant in full sun.

TREE & SHRUB PLANTING

1. Break up the soil in the planting site 2-3 times the width of the root-ball and remove it creating sloped sides. Leave a flat base which has a depth of the height of the root-ball to the top edge, not the trunk itself. Larger trees will have a trunk flair which is the visible part of the trunk which is noticeably wider at the base. This part of the tree must always be at or slightly above finished grade, never below. Deep planting is a primary cause of tree failure. Container shrubs may require "scoring" the roots prior to planting and in some cases the bottom 1-2" will need to be sawed off. Container trees will often have circular roots which should be pruned off prior to backfilling.

2. Set the root-ball in the hole at the proper depth and then backfill with existing soil blended with Corliss Planting Mixture and Bower & Branch Elements Soil Enhancer. Stop after filling 1/3 and then add water to the hole to settle the soil. Once the plant is stable go ahead and remove all the twine and burlap around the top. Wire baskets can be either folded down or top 1/3 removed if desired. Backfill another 1/3 of blended soil and then repeat the watering. We always recommend our planting mix due to the often poor quality of the soil in our yards.

3. Finish the backfilling to grade level and make a circular mound of soil around the outside edge of the root-ball circumference. This will create a "saucer" or "well" which holds water and prevents run-off. Bark mulch should be applied at a 2-3" depth but without actually touching the trunk itself.

4. Pay careful attention to watering especially during the first year. Larger trees should be watered deeply with 10 gallons for every 1" of caliper per week total. Do not let the rootball go completely dry as it will create a situation which will repel water and be difficult to rehydrate. This may be divided into several waterings and is often necessary for well drained soil conditions. Soggy soil is to be avoided and regular inspections of sub-surface moisture should be monitored by digging with a trowel to a depth of 6-8". During periods of substantial rainfall such as spring and fall, hand-watering may need to be reduced or temporarily halted. Don't rely on lawn sprinklers!

Beginning Watering Volumes (well drained soil):

Pot Size	Water Volume
#1-2 pots	2-4 gallons per week
#3-5 pots	6-8 gallons per week
#7-9 pots	7-9 gallons per week
#10-15 pots	10 gallons per week
(B&B Trees)	10 gallons per 1" trunk diameter

*Initially use 50% less for plants which prefer drier soils

*Deduct rainfall amounts from weekly totals.

*Dormant plants should only be fully moistened when installed and then wait until the leaves fully emerge to continue.

We stock automatic water bags which are a simple way to help larger items and trees get the care they need. They are a great tool to use especially during summer when activities and vacations come into play.
